

GREAT ADVENTURES

Two heroes. Six quests. One game.

Top-down dungeon battles that open into full 3D worlds.

TOTALDOGWATER ENTERTAINMENT · ANDROID · 2026

PRESS KIT

Two complete three-quest sagas in a single app. Jimmo and Barbara each fight through two top-down chapters of overworld exploration and dungeon combat, then step into a full third-person 3D world for their finale. Pick a hero on the start screen and the story hands off from quest to quest without ever leaving the game. Offline, no ads, no in-app purchases, and it collects no data at all.

TWO HEROES, TWO SAGAS

SAGA ONE

Jimmo

A dinosaur with a stomp, a roar and a charged blast, defending Greenscale Village against whatever crawls out of the dungeons around it.

- Q1

Greenscale Valley: overworld, towns, dungeon bosses
- Q2

Across the sea to Riftport, and the rift beyond it
- Q3

Full 3D: roam free, collect eggs and shards, finish the saga

SAGA TWO

Barbara

A manatee with a fin swipe, a bubble beam and an anchor drop, holding Pearl Cove against the reef's worst and the SNAPJAW at the end of it.

- Q1

Pearl Cove: the reef, its towns and its dens
- Q2

The dungeons beyond Tidehaven, and the SNAPJAW
- Q3

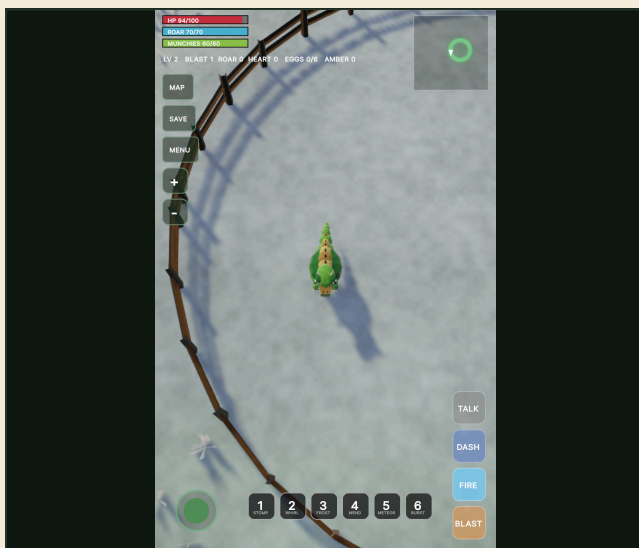

Full 3D: her own open finale, the same eggs and shards

HOW IT PLAYS

- Two shapes of game in one app. Quests 1 and 2 are fast top-down action: explore the overworld, clear dungeons, level up, learn skills, beat bosses. Quest 3 opens the same world into third-person 3D.
- A companion that fights with you, levels with you, and can be swapped for a second ally once you have one.
- Save anywhere, plus a transferable save code, so a run moves between devices with no account and no network.
- Built for a phone first. One thumb steers, the other acts; the whole HUD scales to the screen it is on.
- Six skills per hero, learned as you level, cast from the on-screen chip row or the number keys, each with its own cooldown.
- A living overworld: wandering townsfolk with dialogue, discoverable regions, a parchment map that fills in as you find things.
- Remappable everything. Keyboard, gamepad and mouse bindings are editable in-game, and every on-screen button shows its own key.
- Nothing between you and the game. No account, no ads, no in-app purchases, no data collection, no network permission needed.

SCREENSHOTS

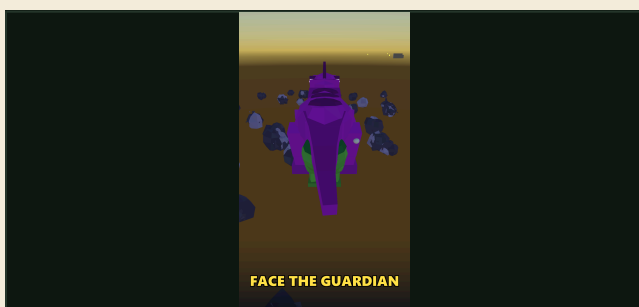

Real gameplay, one shot per game mode. The two top-down shots are device captures of the shipping build on a tablet, interface and all; below them, the 3D finale and the screen the game opens on. Full-resolution PNGs are in the media kit below.

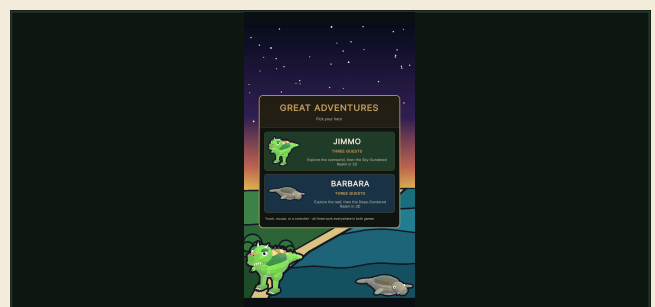

Jimmo, quests 1 and 2. One thumb on the stick, six skill chips along the bottom, and every button captioned with its own key and pad button.

Barbara, quests 1 and 2. Her own skills, her own bars, the same controls: the reef beyond Pearl Cove with the radar top right.

Quest 3, either hero. The world opens into third-person 3D: roam it, collect the eggs and shards, and face the Guardian at the end of it.

Where it starts. One app, two sagas: pick a hero and the game hands you from quest to quest without ever returning to a launcher.

BOILERPLATE

TotalDogWater Entertainment builds small, self-contained games that work the way things used to: you buy them once, they run offline, and nothing inside them is trying to sell you anything. Great Adventures is its Android debut - two complete three-quest sagas, each one starting as a top-down adventure and opening into a 3D world, in one app for a dollar.
